CAPITAL OVER 350,000 DOLLARS, AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING. The Charter of this Company offers more favorable advantages to the farmer and others, than any Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant prefer, he can pay the full amount of the premium in each, or by effecting a cash insurance for two years, the insured saves one-eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves nearly one-half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the J. W. BURKE. combination of the

CASH AND MUTUAL PRINCIPLE. This Company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by fire, on the 13th day of March, 1854, since which time over seven thousand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over seventy thousand dollars have been paid for losses. Having increased our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering prospeets of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a rigid ystem of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and safety not surpassed by any Company in the U. States. All differences in settlement of losses, may be letermined by three disinterested arbitrators of the County where such less happened, to be mutually chosen by the insured and the Company.

The heavens, if they have any symtyrant, as upon the inauguration of a patrilic seems rocking to its foundation, and all have been told, are there more delightful seasons than in America-is more brilliant altogether in the course of time. We allude phere, which we recollect to have seen so intense as to make the eyes sore. There is now scarcely anything left of the phenomenon. It is all sunshine-glorious sunshine, so palpable that you may almost touch it, so thick that you may almost bathe in it, so unearthly that it seems to transfigure those who stand in it. For ourselves, we confess the old, dirphere, and its sunbeams forcing its way through the cloud, until they fell on earth like the rays of the sun after passing through a window of stained glass, pleased us much better. There was always to us a charm in the soft, dreamy, Indian Summer of the olden time, that we could never explain, nor can we even now understand it. It had a tendency to promote melancholy, but melancholy of a nature so gentle that it was exquisitely luxurious. It seemed to call up the memory of something in the long, long past, which we could not distinctly understand, yet which we eagerly desired to grasp, as though it were the connecting link between our present being and some previous exist-we presume sportsmen are taking the field in all directions. Some four years ago, an apprehension existed that the breed of partridges had been entirely exterminated by the hard winters. Appeals were frequently made to sportsmen, through the public prints, to abstain from pursuing their game until the remnants, if there were any, should have time to rally and recruit. Either those appeals proved very successful, or the birds have defied the skill of the sportsman, or the winters have been very propitious, or all this taken together has come to pass; for we learn that there never were so many birds as there are now. We hope the sportsmen will be moderate-shoot not for glory, but recreation-kill no more than they can eat each day-and carefully abstain from shooting birds on the ebrated Manufactories of Horatio Worcester and ground. This last is an offence which ought Carhart, Needham & Co., which, for beauty of to be made penal.
